Quelle: http://manuscripta.at/?ID=26520
Copyright: Admont, Benediktinerstift

Sunt et sirtes in terra Quando autē p ei dyptongū scribit̄ cautes significat.
Hinc & sine dicunt̄. Sirene monstra sunt i mari partim uirgines partim uo lucres, quę cantu suo nauigantes ad pericu losa loca p trahunt. Sed in fabula tres soro res fuerunt uxta caſacrū montē. Qua rū una tybia caneb at. altera cytha ra. tercia mare piculosissimū. Denięp ppt dulcedinē melodie illarū naute, puo cau pi riclitabant̄. Luces u astutissim hoc audiens suoy nautarū aures cera obduratit semet ipsū ut ad arborē ligari p̄cepit et sic audiens illarū cant̄ eu alit. At ille uidentes eos in sisse in eadē nocte se p̄cipitauerūt in mare.
Reuera cautes sunt cauernose in quas fluc tus ingrediens nimia melodia resonat cui sonū naute delectati audire subito etiā nolentes tracti in mare mergunt̄. Ido celestē aiens patriā similiter emulorū